Roderick Haig-Brown Centenary Lecture in Environmental Law

Prof. Marie-Claire Cordonier Segger

Director, Centre for International Sustainable Development Law, Montreal, and Visiting Professor, Faculty of Law, University of Victoria

Globalization, International Justice and Our Planet

Wednesday, 30 July, 7:00 p.m.
Fraser Building, Room 157

Presented by the The Haig-Brown Centenary Committee,
The Centre for International Sustainable Development Law, and the Faculty of Law, University of Victoria

Prof. Cordonier Segger, an international lawyer and scholar, will address issues of economic globalization, environmental change and social injustice, and also examine how the world is coping with these continuing developments.

The Roderick Haig-Brown Centenary Lecture in Environmental Law is named in honour of Roderick Haig-Brown, a respected Canadian writer, naturalist and conservationist who was born in England in 1908 but lived in British Columbia for most of his life. He served as a magistrate in Campbell River for over 30 years and was Chancellor of the University of Victoria from 1970 to 1972.

Free and open to the public | Seating is limited
